Vande Mataram Diwali 2021

देश , प्रदेश से सैनिको को संदेश

May the divine light of Diwali bring into your life peace, prosperity, happiness and good health.

Happy Diwali.

Message from our Founder

With a very high JOSH deep within M.A.D.'s team, I would like to share the gist of Vande Mataram Diwali 2021 Initiative.

How was the seed planted?

Every Year I used to get a lot of inquiries during Diwali on how and what can we do to express our gratitude and pass our respects to our Defense forces personnel who year-on-year spend the festivities without their family for the service of our motherland. So that's what sparked the idea of making handmade Diwali greeting cards and it being "Amrut Mahotasav", our 75th Year of Independence, it was the best timing for expressing our gratitude. Once we started with the project, I realized that this small Idea had snow balled into a huge National and International Movement. I realized that many of our citizens genuinely wanted to do something for the Defense forces. We received participation from not only the metro cities but also the rural parts of the country, and what really amazed us was their innovative designs despite the limited availability of resources.

What was the plan?

Since the inception of the project our aim was to have something very simple and without any restriction or compulsion attached so that anyone and everyone could participate. This paved the way to generate true and genuine feeling of nationalism in each and every soul that engaged with the card making process. The process involved people from different age groups, from schools, colleges, housing societies and also brought together more than 1,25,000 families. Excitement and enthusiasm was felt in all, as this was the best way to celebrate our biggest festival where Lord Ram returned home after Victory over evil and a long Vanvas of 14 years. With an average of 10 minutes spent to make each card, the citizens have spent around 21,000 Man hours 21000 man hours i.e. approximately 860+ days or more than two yearsto celebrate Diwali and convey their gratitude for the Armed forces.

How did we achieve it?

M.A.D. Team managed a way to work and there were collections in huge numbers , PTA committee of schools were involved actively and so were our partner volunteers in the collection drive from Baroda in Gujrat to Lalitpur in UP and from Kullu in Himachal Pradesh to Chennai in Tamil-Nadu Across the length and breadth of India. M.A.D. volunteers were in constant touch with all institutions and participants, from registration phase to collection phase of the project. Volunteers were working 24*7 in 2 timezones IST and international timezones to carry out the process smoothly, and meeting all expected deadlines and not to forget our overseas volunteers from US in the West all the way to Japan in East.

Even the Corporate India did their best by involving their employees in the Vande Mataram Initiative 2021.

What was the reaction of our Armed Forces?

Our Armed Forces received the cards and the project with an open heart. They were very happy to witness the love showered by the civilians on them. It was an emotional moment for them as they realized that the civilians were acknowledging the sacrifices made not only by them but also by their families, especially during the festivities. For them It was Moral boosting to see the cards from kids from 3 years old and Senior citizens up to the age of 77 years.

कोई 'हस्ती' कोई 'मस्ती' ,कोई 'चाह' पे मरता है..
कोई 'नफरत' कोई 'मोहब्बत' ,कोई 'लगाव' पे मरता है..
ये "देश" है उन 'दिवानों' का यहां हर बन्दा
अपने "हिंदुस्तान" पे मरता है

This Daan Utsav, pen wishes for armed forces on cards

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

This rangoli is made of 36 dots but they are invisible," reads the Hindi text on a yellow page that bears a rangoli drawn with a pen. "Similarly, India's soldiers are not visible but they protect us, and, like this rangoli, fill our lives with colour."

Made by 12-year-old Hinkle Idnani from Ulhasnagar, this handcrafted analogy is among nearly one lakh greeting cards meant for the Indian armed forces that have reached collection centres of Making A Difference (MAD) Foundation so far.

As part of #DaanUtsav this year, MAD Foundation is running a campaign called 'Vande Mataram Diwali 2021: Desh Videsh Se Sainiko Ko Sandesh'. "The idea of the initiative is to encourage individuals, schools, NGOs and organisations in every state of India to convey their emotions and wishes for the armed forces in the light of both India's 75th year of Independence and Diwali, which falls on November 4," said Haresh Shah, founder of the NGO.

"We are looking to tap Indians living abroad too," said Shah, a math professor, adding that he aims to receive exactly 7.5 lakh greeting cards by the end of #DaanUtsav October 15. Why 7.5 lakh? That figure would mark India's 75th year of Independence, he said.

The rules of participation are simple. Before October 15, prepare a handmade Diwali greeting card with your Diwali wishes and personal gratitude and send it to MAD Foundation, which has 25 collection centres in Mumbai. Participants can even upload images of their handcrafted greeting card online. "In return, each greeting card sender will get an e-certificate acknowledging their efforts," said Shah.

Many schools across the country have sent creative handcrafted cards filled with gratitude for the soldiers

Besides Indians in the US, Canada, Australia, Kenya and the UK, 270 institutes in the country, including NGOs, schools and colleges such as IIM-Ahmedabad and IIM-Bangalore, have collaborated with the initiative so far.

From an LED-powered shoebox that lights up the words 'Happy Diwali' when you join its wires to a card boasting pleated crepe paper in the colours of the Indian flag, their handcrafted contributions have impressed Shah with their creative range.

"We are excited about the fact that we are able to ignite this creative thought process in children," said Shah, citing students in a school in UP's Lalitpur who pooled in their pocket money to purchase raw material for the cards. A greeting card sent by a visually challenged girl was among this lot. It stirred the motivational speaker in Shah: "Nothing can obstruct you from expressing your emotions for the armed forces."

To participate, send in your greeting cards to Making A Difference Foundation, 9A 1st Floor Vimal Udyog Bhavan, Taikalwadi Road, Matunga West, Mumbai - 400016. For more information, write to madmadfoundation@gmail.com or call on 9833138994

Diwali is the most exciting festival for us Indians. From preparations to celebrations, everything we celebrate on a large scale. This is the time when we want to be with our family and friends to burn crackers, play cards, eat sweets and simply enjoy the best festive time of the year. But even at these joyous times soldiers of our country are guarding the borders to make sure that we are able to celebrate Diwali with peace and happiness. We live abroad away from our family and that distance gives us the strength to celebrate the festival with the hope that our family is enjoying the Festival as well. But our soldiers family is hoping for their safety. They do not take the day off from protecting our borders. Dear Soldiers, Thank YOU for making our Diwali happier and secure. Sending warm wishes to our BRAVE SOLDIERS and YOUR FAMILIES. We pray for your SUCCESS and SAFETY

Happy Diwali to all the brave hearts!

This is my first Diwali away from my home and family. I now understand how it feels to not be able to celebrate and cherish the festivities with family. Our scenarios are definitely not comparable. Salute to your dedication and duty.

May these warm wishes make you feel close to your families.

When I was contacted about the Idea, I approached the local schools in my locality, which included schools from Urdu medium, Gujrati Medium and English Medium As well one of the only schools in nearby Kone Village. Being from the background of owning a printing press, I had a lot of these schools in my contact. So it was easier for me to connect to them and I called a meeting of these teachers and explained them the entire idea, Teachers appreciated the project celebrating our Defense Forces on the occasion of “Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav” 75th Anniversary of our Independence .Students of all grades participated from 5th -8th standards and their cards displayed the sheer enthusiasm behind making them , it surely was not just another school project. This project was so infectious that when a 5-year boy overheard me discussing the project with a friend, he involved his building friends and by himself collected about 30 Greeting cards. And so did the daughter of my very good friend Mr. Azhar bhai Kazi who is a tuition teacher took up this project with her pupils. Mr. Azhar bhai Kazi and mukim sheikh also helped by connecting me to the Urdu schools and thus we could involve people from all communities for the project. All in all it was great experience reliving the days of my printing business going school to school and having tea with the office bearers.

When Haresh bhai shared the Idea with me I very gladly told him that I would love to make a card and send over the same, little did I know that I would be a part of this gigantic movement. And was tasked with engaging the institutes, schools and colleges in Aligarh. This is when I came in contact with dr. divya lehri who was a part of the inner wheel circle, A part of the rotary circle group in Aligarh. Together we involved a lot of organizations raising a sizeable number of cards. In order to channelize these cards we approached the officials at Mathura Cant. And with the help of group Captain Rajeev Varshney we were able to deliver about 60,000 cards to their rightful destination. From this entire experience I have realized that when you set out to do something sincerely and without any burden in mind , things start falling in place as you keep moving and the magnitude of your result has no limits or boundaries, you just need to go out and start acting on it.

When Haresh ji first called and gave me the information, at that very same moment I had decided to become a part of the project and I knew at that this project is going to be monumental in its own way, This was my opportunity where I could express the gratitude and the feelings of our community and channelize it to the armed forces ,so I started to connect with the teachers of the nearby school, they took up the project with utmost zeal even when the schools had not begun yet and everything was online. The best part was when the kids got back to their teachers saying that even the standard A4 size paper is falling short of all the feelings they wanted to convey, and requested there to be no limitations to the size of the paper. Thereafter the way they expressed their feelings was just spell bounding. They for the first time got a medium to express their feelings for the armed forces. When we engaged with the Commanding officer of the Army Cantonment in the neighborhood area, they were so impressed with the cards made by these kids and the movement that they willingly came to the school to meet and personally accept these cards from the students themselves. In the rural India the respect the kids have for the armed forces is so amazing that these small kids even broke their savings in gullaks to procure the crayons, fancy highlighters and other decorative materials from their nearby town.

The positive trend coming from the project and the excitement in the kids is highly appreciated by the CO Sir and he even proposed to hold some informative camps for these kids to educate on how to go about in order to become a part of the defense forces. we are eternally grateful to be a part of this project which can very well be life changing for some of the kids to meet their Real Life Heroes in Uniform and may even inspire them to join our prestigious Armed Forces.

When I saw the Details of the Vande Bharat project, I really liked the concept and asked how I could I join and contribute, I reached to satsang group of kids to begin with later engaged with college and institutes. The satsang group from Ulhasnagar was especially so keen to participate in the programme, that they executed within handful of the days, and their joy knew no bounds when they were featured in a TIMES of India article mentioning the work they have done with the details of their Greeting cards. They never would have thought in their wildest dreams that an act done purely with gratitude and without any expectations can be so satisfying and rewarding.

I engaged with a school in kalyan, where kids participated from 1st standard to 10th standard. The creativity of the kids was simply astonishing. The words penned by them to express their gratitude were so beautifully put together that it's made me appreciate the creativity and the talent of our kids and made me even more proud that India has a treasure to cherish.

I also connected with IIM at Ahmedabad, Bangalore and Calcutta and am very glad to see that they also participated in the project with equal enthusiasm.

I'm Shriya, a junior doctor working in the UK. I migrated here this year after getting a job and while I like this new country, India will always be home. I am so proud of our nation and I talk about it very loudly and proudly to every foreigner I meet.

I have always wanted to part of a program that sends letters to soldiers. You guys are the real heroes!!! You are so brave and kind and the reason we can all sleep peacefully. I can't even imagine the harsh conditions you survive. You are all very inspiring. The passion and love and dedication you have in your profession is truly something, and I can only hope to have a fraction of that for medicine, which is mine.

Thank you, thank you so much for keeping my loved ones safe. I won't be meeting them this Diwali, and maybe this doesn't mean much, but I'll take this opportunity to wish you a very happy Diwali from halfway around the world. Some of you may not celebrate this festival, in which case, I would still like to send good wishes. Wherever I go, whatever I do, I will always be Indian first.

Dear Soldiers of Bharat,
Diwali Greetings!

My heartfelt wishes to each and every soldier of our country Bharat! I had been an Airforce officer aspirant, and had attended AFSB Mysore in the year 2001.

Could not clear the physical rounds as physical training was never directed in our Academics then.

But the passion to serve the country is still there, I started my career as a Teacher and had worked for a Charity organisation CRY for 7 years of my early youth helping them raise funds by conducting stalls at every possible corporate, malls in Mumbai, Pune, Bangalore & for a short duration in Kolkata also.

Even today as swayamsevak of HSS working as a Mathematics Teacher for the last 5 years in an International school in Tokyo www.uia.jp and helping the Indian community with education and counselling services.

I have great respect for our soldiers and have regularly participated in blood donation drives, cultural events.

I really wish you all the blessings and my prayers to Mahadev that you attain the best possible glory in this lifetime and even in all possible lifetimes for your sincere service to the nation our BHARAT!

HAPPY DIWALI once again to all the true sons & daughters of our Nation Bharat!

Shailesh S.Pillai,

Sitting here and writing about it is easy compared to what you guys do out there , words won't be enough to elaborate how grateful we all are to our soldiers for keeping us safe and fighting for us . But the one best thing we all can do is to pray for ur safety and whoever knows a soldier's family to go and celebrate diwali with them .

I wish all our soldiers a happy and a safe diwali and pray that you get to celebrate diwali with ur family too like others do.
